DANCE IN CHATTANOOGA

I'm two days late getting this newsletter ready for the printer, I have a page to fill, and I don't have any pictures from recent dances. So I thought I'd tell you about a recent visit to Chattanooga.

Kathy and I danced in Chattanooga February 9 and had a great time! It was a full day of dancing that started with an English country dance workshop. The workshop was led by Kendal Brodie with music by Calliope. This was the first time we had tried English country dancing, and we really didn't know what to expect. I had heard something about giving weight differently (giving less weight, to be precise), but it wasn't much to go on.

What we learned is that English country dancing is quite varied, has similar steps to contra dancing (though with different names), and is a lot of fun!

We danced a circle dance that met my vague expectations -- the steps were a little slower, and partners didn't touch beyond allemandes. But the dance was elegant, and we learned new steps -- "set", "back to back", "grand chain", among others.

Later, Kendall called a dance in waltz time that moved through familiar sets of two couples, like contra dancing, but that we stepped through in the left-right-left, right-left-right waltz time. This also had some familiar steps and some new steps. While a little more formal than we generally do in contra dancing, the dance created fun new shapes and was really just a slightly different approach to the familiar fun: smiles, eye contact, gentle pushing and pulling, and swings.

By far, my favorite dance of the afternoon was a 5-couple reel that featured a wild ladies chain, butterfly whirls, and got out of hand in a hurry if you didn't give the situation your full attention!

English country dancing was a blast, Kendall's calling was spot-on, and Calliope was hot!

But the evening was just getting started. The Contranooga group of dancers set out a terrific pot-luck dinner following the workshop that really hit the spot. And as we cleaned up, the crowds began pouring into the hall for the regular contra dance.

We've danced in Chattanooga several times before, and each time I'm amazed again at the number of young newcomers they have and the amount of energy and buoyant emotions they bring with them! Kendall had his hands full getting each new dance started, but once things were underway, we were carried along by the music, calling, and exuberant dancing.

If you like your contras with a healthy dose of youthful vigor and warm hospitality, you could do a lot worse than making the short trek to Chattanooga. And there's a final bonus: you get an hour back on the drive home.

Hotpoint Stringband is Mark Burhans (fiddle), Hilarie Burhans (clawhammer banjo), Mark Hellenberg (percussion, banjo uke), Marlene Shostak (piano), and Nick Weiland (bass).

Surely you already know them? Sizzling hot contra dance tunes, high-energy squares, and hopping string swing. This band gives so much more than a steady beat you can dance to! Hotpoint gives you that, too, with the swinging playfulness that harkens back to the jazz bands in dance halls of an earlier time. Bring your best dancing shoes and plenty of energy because you will have to dance!

Joseph Pimentel is a New England native who has recently moved to Houston, Texas. Everything is bigger in Texas so they had to have Joseph! His skillful mix of clear teaching and discriminating taste with wide-open happiness and high-energy, puts us all in a dancing mood. How he does it is magic, but the dancers reap the benefits! Joseph's calling is popular around the country. He is truly a man with panache!

Atlanta's Cis Hinkle calls dynamic contras and fast moving squares with zest and simplicity. Her enthusiastic calling is appreciated at dances across the U.S., England and Scandinavia. We welcome her back to Once in a Blue Moon!

Ed Baggott & Elsie Peterson are a Huntsville duo on fiddle and piano that have been playing dances across the country for well over a decade. They combine music from both traditional and contemporary sources and bring a unique, rich, and unusually diverse repertoire of tunes to the dance floor.
